

Romeo/Julio, Who's got the ballio?????

This is a game played by children in the school yard.

See video

One child turns their back on the crowd and throws the ball into the crowd.

A member of the crowd catches the ball and hides it behind their back and together the crowd say,

Romeo(male) Julio (female) who's got the ballio? I haven't got it in my pocket, I haven't got it at all.

The person who threw the ball must guess who has the ball behind their back.

If they guess correctly, they get another go as the thrower, if they don't guess correctly the person who has the ball becomes the thrower.
